SHOPSMART RETAIL

Business Analysis & Recommendations Report

Scope: Week 1 Retail Sales Analysis

1. Key Findings

Finding 1 — Beauty leads category revenue. Total revenue was 7,575,250,086. Beauty gene Finding 2 — ShopSmart has a substantial sales and customer base. The dashboard reports !

Finding 3 — Inventory requires close financial oversight. Reported inventory value is 3,169,

2. Business Recommendations

1. Invest selectively in Beauty. Test targeted promotions and expand high-performing produ

2. Protect the leading revenue categories. Beauty, Groceries and Electronics account for 64

3. Improve inventory and returns management. Review stock on hand against reorder level

3. Key Risk

Data quality and relationship limitations. The original Returns data does not identify the re

4. Business Opportunity

Evidence-led category expansion. Beauty is the largest revenue category, contributing 23.2

Conclusion

ShopSmart should build on Beauty's revenue leadership, protect the contribution of its three erated 1,762,500,500, representing 23.27% of revenue. It exceeded Groceries, the second-largest catego

50,000 orders across 5,000 customers, with an average order value of 151,505. These metrics provide a

,020,818, while the dashboard reports a 5% return rate. These figures highlight the importance of mana ucts. Track incremental revenue, gross margin and returns to confirm that growth translates into profit.

.26% of revenue. Monitor their demand, stock availability and sales trends, and prioritize replenishment ls, investigate frequently returned products, and identify slow-moving inventory. Use validated stock and turned Product_ID, and the Products and Suppliers tables lack a confirmed direct supplier-to-product rel

7% of sales. Management can test selective product expansion and targeted marketing, then evaluate re e leading categories, and improve inventory and returns controls. Investment decisions should consider p ory at 1,576,700,404, by 185,800,096. The three leading categories—Beauty, Groceries and Electronics—baseline for monitoring transaction performance and customer value.

ging stock availability, inventory holding costs and returns. The return-rate calculation and inventory valu where evidence indicates a risk of lost sales.

d cost data to reduce avoidable holding costs without increasing stockout risk.

lationship. Product-level return rankings and supplier rankings based on brand-name matching may there evenue growth, profitability, inventory turnover and returns before scaling the investment.

profitability and validated operational data—not revenue alone.

·contributed 64.26% of total revenue.

uation should be validated against the source data before major decisions are made.

efore be unreliable. KPI calculations also require validation before they are used for financial decisions.